7 BANGALORE: The much-talked-about Unique Identification Project that aims at creating a 2 large centralised database of personal data registry of Indian citizens has been criticised 3 by civil society organisations.

1 Three Bangalore-based or-7 ganisations have taken objection to several points outlined in the recently-released Draft National Identification Authority of India Bill 2010. At a press conference here on Monday, representatives from the Citizens Action Forum, Centre for Internet and Alternative Law Forum voiced concerns over the project. These groups demand that the project be debated in Parliament
